Bliss McMichael (2007) was recently inducted into the Tate Society at the University of Georgia. The Tate Society strives to serve as a memorial to the legendary leader, Dean William Tate, and to spread both the reality and lore of this great Georgian by annually recognizing 12 men and 12 women of the freshman class who best exemplify the qualities that Dean Tate possessed. More specifically, selection is based upon academic achievement, extracurricular involvement, and potential for future leadership and achievement. Current Tate Society members are involved in every facet of campus life, and accepted applicants are expected to continue their contributions to the University throughout their college tenure.

Also, Bliss served as the 2007 Georgia's Junior Miss and represented the state at the America's Junior Miss Finals in Mobile, Alabama. Each year, the previous class of state representatives is invited back. These girls are "Big Sisters" to the current contestants and ambassadors of the AJM program during the week throughout the city of Mobile where they do community service, attend local civic clubs and even present a talent-filled "Has Been" Show on Friday prior to the AJM finals on Saturday night. The returning girls select one of their own for a Spirit of Junior Miss Award. Bliss was selected for this award and was presented with a $750.00 scholarship along with this honor.
